

OBJECTION MADE ON MOVING NAVY TO THE PACIFIC

Large Interests on Atlantic Preparing to Oppose New Policy.

Inauguration of a new naval policy, which looks to transferring the great battleship fleet, together with a squadron of armored cruisers to Pacific waters, is expected to cause determined opposition of some influential interests on the Atlantic coast.

Further, it is fully anticipated that anti-imperialistic opposition will become active, and will be aimed against what will be regarded as a policy calculated to once to embroil the United States with Japan, and also to make the navy vastly larger and more expensive.

Notwithstanding these difficulties, the administration is determined to carry out to execution the tremendous plan which was first and exclusively outlined in the Times yesterday. The supremacy of the Pacific is not being relinquished to Japan. This country remained quiet when Japan practically annexed Korea, despite that we had a treaty of friendship with that empire in which we practically were bound to use our influence to protect the integrity of the empire. Japan was allowed to work out her plans there, but there will be effort hereafter to prevent consummation of the same Japanese policy as to Manchuria and China.

Position of This Country.

The United States is especially well situated at present to renew its concern on behalf of China, because its recent return to that empire of the big indemnity which was owing to us, the claim of America to leadership, then, in behalf of China's preservation, is stronger than ever before, based on traditional friendship, on recent substantial benefits, on our right claim to recognition as a Pacific power, and finally on the policy of maintaining a show of sufficient force to maintain that position.

The voice of China must soon be heard against Japanese absorption of Manchuria, or else be forever stifled. With an overwhelming naval force in the Pacific, the United States could make the joint protest of itself and China effective. Without that force it is uncertain.

It may be said with all assurance, that the next friendly act of the United States to China will be negotiation of a treaty by which the United States will require all Chinese subjects to be armed with passports on leaving the empire, and will refuse to grant passports to laborers desiring to go to the United States. China will adopt the policy in short of preventing her peasantry going to the United States instead of the United States excluding them from this country. The result will be the relief of this country in many parts, from the administrative problem of enforcing an exclusion law, and the saving of Chinese from the perils of a life of proscription as an excluded people.

Will Oppose New Naval Policy.

That there will be vigorous opposition by politicians to the new naval policy is not questioned. The navy yards on the Atlantic coast will be deprived for a time of certain business, though it is expected that in the long run they will benefit by the necessity of building a new fleet for the Atlantic. There is little doubt that a great impetus will be given to navy expansion, and that the Atlantic States will press for a program of development calculated to give them the near future a fleet of their own. For the time being, it is calculated that the cruiser squadrons of the United States, including the battleships, will be supplemented by a squadron of armored cruisers, the naval organization making light armament, and the squadron unit which accompanies a fleet of six battleships.

Composition of Fleet.

The cruiser squadron for the Pacific will be composed of the West Virginia, Colorado, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Tennessee, Washington, Montana, and North Carolina. The Tennessee and Washington are now on their way to be Pacific coast. These huge armored cruisers are larger than most of the battleships that fought on either side in the Russo-Japanese war, being practically as powerful as battleships.

As basis for the development of a new battleship fleet in the Atlantic, here will be the Idaho, Mississippi, South Carolina, and Michigan. Along with the battleship fleet and the armored cruiser squadron there will be maintained in the Pacific two torpedo flotillas.

The problem of maintenance of the new Pacific establishment cannot be overstated. The President's naval recommendations for next year will include probably 20,000-ton battleships of the greater-than-Dreadnought type, and the great and striking feature of the plan will be the demand for immediate provision of dock and repair facilities in the Pacific.

AGED WOMAN RUN OVER

BY RECKLESS DRIVERS

Mrs. Carrie Lunsford, sixty-five years old, of 411 Pennsylvania avenue southeast, was knocked down and run over by a Delaware avenue and D street southeast last night by a horse driven by an unidentified white woman. There were two women in the bug and the police, after running over the aged woman, they drove on without offering to lend any assistance.

Mrs. Lunsford was assisted home by her daughter and treated by Dr. Herget. Her injuries are not considered serious.

VIRGINIA PLANTER SLAIN

BY NEGRO FARMHAND

DANVILLE, Va., July 2.—In the presence of his wife and daughter, Henry Motley, a prominent farmer of Franklin county, was shot to death by George Dudley, a young negro farmhand, and about twenty years of age. Dudley has been arrested today in Henry county, and is now in jail at Martinsville. Henry Adams, a young white man, with whose pistol the negro is alleged to have done the shooting, and whom Dudley was employed, is wanted on the charge of being accessory to the killing. The shooting grew out of Motley's ordering the negro not to pass through his farm.

WHERE IS SHE? THE CHRISTY GIRL OF WASHINGTON

Mr. Christy's girl is copied from life, of course, but I don't think I could really believe it unless I saw the original.

The young lady then suggested that the matter be submitted to the Sunday Times for settlement. To this the young man agreed, and the Sunday Editor immediately created the Christy Girl to solicit photographs of Christy or near-Christy girls in Washington.

Everyone Is Invited.

Everyone in Washington is invited to submit a photograph. After a sufficient number of likenesses have been sent in the Christy Girl will determine which one bears closest resemblance to the artist's feminine beauty.

Photographs of your wife, daughter, sweetheart, friend, or casual acquaintance are eligible. No age limit is set. Twenty-five dollars in gold will be paid to the person addressing to the Christy Girl the photograph which looks the most like a Christy drawing.

The Christy Girl is a tall girl. Composite approaching hauteur predominates in her face. Her brow is marble-like, and gradually sloped. Her eyes are deep-set, and her nose is straight. Delicacy of modeling is the chief characteristic of the features. The nose is thin from the ideal to the real. The face in its entirety is inclined to be longish, her cherry-like lips form what is usually styled a cupid's bow. Her mouth, her chin is round and slopes slowly. The neck is a trifle longer than that of most other girls, and the shoulders are plump, round, and somewhat narrow.

Strikingly Handsome Girl.

Withal the Christy Girl is a strikingly handsome girl and is universally admired. If it be true that women are more critical of feminine loveliness, grace, and repose than members of the less gentle sex, the Christy Girl is delightfully near the ideal. The Christy Girl is perhaps more admired by women than any other and the original of the drawing must needs be a beauty in many respects.

Although the artist's society girls have won for him a name in art which time cannot efface, his drawings of the girl of excessive simplicity are equally artistic and beautiful. Christy's model is just as apt to be found beside the churn or behind the ribbon counter as in a gilded palace.

Photographs submitted for the Christy contest will be published at the discretion of the Christy Editor. All of them will be carefully handled and preserved and returned to the owners.

ALUMNI OF MUTES

PLAN BIG FUND

$3,500,000 Endowment Suggested at Gallaudet Reunion.

The final day of the reunion of the alumni of Gallaudet is being spent at Great Falls, and a feature of the outing is to be a visit to the site of the time-honored camping-out site of the Gallaudet boys at Eastertide.

Officers Elected.

The Alumni Association yesterday evening chose the following officers: President, B. R. Allibough, '84, Pennsylvania; vice president, Mrs. H. T. Stafford, '85, Washington; secretary, L. A. Dinlee, '86, Vancouver; treasurer, J. Schuyler Long, '89, Iowa.

Mr. Veditz, in his paper on "What the Alumni Has Done," moved that it raise an endowment fund of $3,500,000 and begin the work at once. The project and amount came as a great surprise. After discussion, it was decided to appoint a committee to consider the project, referring their decision to the various branches of the association for further consideration.

Poem in Concert.

The entertainment on the green last night began at nightfall and the dance continued until the rain came. The vaudeville entertainment, under the direction of A. D. Bryant, was largely depicting college life of Gallaudet students of the present day, with some skits recited in the evening.

Composition of Fleet.

The cruiser squadron for the Pacific will be composed of the West Virginia, Colorado, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Tennessee, Washington, Montana, and North Carolina. The Tennessee and Washington are now on their way to be Pacific coast.
